

FMI 2022

Food, microbiota and immunity
June 6-9.2022

Prague,
Czech
Republic

2nd Food, microbiota and immunity Prague, Czech Republic June 6-9 2022

Dear friends and colleagues,

The 2nd international conference "Food, microbiota and immunity" will take place on June 6-9, 2022 at Prague, Czech Republic. The conference is organized by the Czech Immunological Society and supported by the program "Food for the future" of the Czech Academy of Sciences. The conference venue is situated in the city center, close to the Vltava river.

This will be a small event promoting discussions, networking and transfer of knowledge to a new generation of scientists. It is intended as a friendly meeting of colleagues working in immunology, microbiology, food research and related fields. Apart from the lectures covering several major links between the immune system, food and microbiota, you can look forward to a poster session, panel discussions and informal social events to facilitate the transfer of scientific ideas.

Kind regards,
Miloslav Kverka
Helena Tlaskalová-Hogenová
Luca Vannucci

For news, updates and registration, visit:
www.fmi2022.eu

Venue:
Palace Charitas
Karlovo nám. 317, 120 00 Nové Město

Important dates:
Registration deadline:
31.5.2022
...or when the capacity is reached
Conference:
6.6.2022 (4:30 pm) – 9.6.2022 (12:30 pm)

Topics:
-The ecology of microbiota
-Microbiota-derived factors
-Host-microbe relationships
-Mechanisms of host-microbe interactions
-Mucosal immunity and tolerance
-Inflammatory diseases and cancer
-Probiotics and functional foods
...and more

 The Czech Academy of Sciences
Strategy AV21
Top research in the public interest